So what exactly is the Getty?

S Steven D Kelley 00:04
What is the Getty? Okay, well, first of all, the Getty is a family. You know, it's primarily a family. I mean, it's a family it's associated with, with money. You know, the the old man, Jean Paul Getty, was, at one time, the richest man in the world during, I don't know what that was, the 70s, or something like this, I suppose. And And this, of course, was from his dealings with Saudi Arabia, getting oil out of Saudi Arabia and getting oil. And then after he died, of course, he everything was sold to Texaco. His son, Gordon, did that. But the reason why we're interested in this, this family isn't because they made a bunch of money and lived crazy lifestyle. It's because they're a bunch they're pedophiles. And, you know, the Getty family hasn't always been pedophile Near as I can tell, but (seriously), (seriously) close as I can get. It seems to me, this started with Jean Paul Getty. He was young man, all right, he was married about, I don't know, five, at least five times. But the thing is, is that he, yeah, I know, made a lot of children, but, but he, you know, you get that kind of money and that kind of power, you're always looking for something else. And who knows what happened? Maybe he was got exposed to something in the Middle East, or something was some child sex, who knows, but either way, yeah, he decided to build himself a bunker. And his first bunker was in Oklahoma, which was just his home. Was just a little home in Oklahoma. He had a Aviation company and a oil company. I think it was out there. Spartan aviation was his company. And then he built himself. He made all his money, he built a villa in Malibu, California, which was basically a big, giant Roman style villa, which, of course, is also a museum. And that when that was built, it was actually had a big bunker built underneath of it, yeah, and he used it. He was built so that he could service his own requirements for children, as well as the requirements of all his high rolling friends who also consume children. So back in those days, he had Ferdinand Marcos, who is the president of the Philippines, shipping 10 year old girls and such, in shipping containers overseas. And they would come into the Port of Long Beach over here in California, just a little south of LA, yeah, and they get into a truck. They'd load that container onto the back of a truck, and it would, I understand, go directly into a tunnel that took it straight to the property. Now, of course, that was, that was when this stuff was going on in Malibu, but the new facility, which was built by his son, Gordon, yeah, is the one that we're focused on, because that's what I got exposed to. And it is a extremely expensive building. It's the most expensive building in Southern California for the most part. And of the artwork you can't it's housed there. You can't put a price on it, because it's literally priceless, right? Yeah, it's like, yeah, it's so much money they can't even, they can't even come up with a number. But this is underneath of all that is there's an actual bunker. That's one of these big, massive bunkers that that the United States has hundreds of built in the country to house the elite and the so called continuity of government and doomsday bunkers and all this nonsense, yeah, but the reality is, they're not fallout shelters. They're there to house the criminal underground, literally, that doesn't just run the so called Western world, but also consumes a lot of children and are essentially Satanist, yeah. So this, this some very ancient, ancient Satanism. And of course, these people that that we are talking about that have their names attached these museums and stuff. They're, they're just, they live. I mean, Gordon Getty just had a birthday. He just turned 90. Oh, wow, I know. And you should have seen the cake. He had the cake look like, well, maybe I could send you a picture, you could post or something, but it looks like, it looks like a homage to the underground. It's got like a little mountain spewing a rainbow, and the rainbow goes underground, and underground, there's a little house, and it's kind of wacky. Yeah, I know. I know, but, uh, I don't know. Maybe it has something to do with the tree of life or something. I don't get it, but either way, it was pretty creepy. And who goes to his birthday party? Gavin Newsom and Nancy Pelosi, so yeah, and Gordon Getty is a Republican.

S Steven D Kelley 00:15
